The JCS On-Farm Photographic Competition

Due to the onset and continuation of the Covid pandemic this year, which resulted in nearly all of the county and national shows for 2020 having been cancelled and thus directly affecting the Society's ability to hold its annual All Britain photographic competition, the Society decided to hold an On-Farm Photographic competition to provide all members with an opportunity to collectively take part in something positive.

Mark Logan, JCS Director, set a range of classes for all members to enter as well as specifically two classes just for Jersey Young Breeders to enable them to submit their own photos they had taken on-farm under the classes 'JYB Scenic' and 'JYB Quirky'. Due to the number of entries received of photos of JYB members as the subject matter, an additional class was added at the judging stage as we wanted to recognise the photos of JYB members in the results as well as those photographs taken by our young members.

Upon the close of entry on 30th September, professional photographer, Jane Steel kindly took the challenge of judging the entries for each class and selecting a Champion and Reserve for each, as well as collectively, with JCS and the editors of the UKJT, the photo for the coveted front cover of the UKJT!

We must thank all our members who took the time to enter as we received some really super on-farm photographs. Full results can be found on the JCS website and here is a sneak preview some of the class champions....
